Republican Congressional District Convention.

FIRST DISTRICT.

A Republican Convention of the First Congressional District of the State of Wisconsin, composed of the counties of Kenosha, Racine, Walworth, Rock and Jefferson, is hereby called to meet at the village of Geneva, in Walworth county, on the 16th day of August, 1882, at 12 o'clock noon of that day, to nominate a candidate for Congress for the District for the next ensuing two years. Each Senate and Assembly District will be entitled to two delegates in the convention.

JOHN R. BENNETT,
D. B. BARNES,
E. ENOS,
T. G. FISH,
H. S. THORP,
Committee.

Dated July 12th, 1882.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION.

A Republican County Convention will be held at the Court House in the city of Janesville, on the 13th day of September, 1882, at 12 o'clock noon, to nominate candidates for county officers. The several towns and wards will be entitled to delegates as follows: Avon, Beloit, Bradford, Center, Harmony, Janesville, Johnstown, La Prairie, Lima, Magnolia, Newark, Plymouth, Porter, Rock, Spring Valley, Turtle, the Second, Third and Fourth Wards of the city of Beloit, and Fifth Ward of the city of Janesville two each; the First Ward of the city of Beloit three; Clinton, Fulton, Union, Milton, the Second and Third Wards of the city of Janesville four each; the First and Fourth Wards of the city of Janesville five each.

W. T. YANKEE.
J. R. WEST.
C. C. KEELER.
W. W. CLARKE.
J. W. JONES,
Committee.

The State Journal has brought out Mr. Keyes for Congress, and promises him a united delegation from Dane county.

The "Ohio idea" is temperance this year, and while the Republicans will advocate law and order, the Democrats will contend for a free use of their old beverage.

The Independents in Pennsylvania are not very hilarious over their prospects in that State. The masses of the Republicans there are not yet willing to put the Democrats in power by voting for the Independents.

Indiana has a Congressman named Peele, who by the way, is a Republican, who, it is said, has not missed a roll call during the recent session. Mr. Peelle is wise; what he lacks in ability he proposes to make up in industry.

Although Mr. Tilden is comparatively very quiet, he is too lively for some of the Democratic leaders in New York. When they think he is dead, it turns out he is just getting ready to do something. Like the Old Man of the Sea, he is too near at hand when he is not wanted.

The Eastern papers warn their people not to believe all the stories, in these dog days, that come from the West; and they hook at the idea that there was snow in Wisconsin last Wednesday. The incredulity of the people down East who see very little of the strange things of this age, is surprising to a live Westerner.

So far the delegates chosen to the Congressional Convention are for Mr. Williams. He will have Rock, Racine, and Kenosha solid, and nearly all from Walworth, which will give him more than enough to nominate him. He will have an easy time of it at Geneva, and will not have sufficient opposition to attach any marked interest to the Convention. The prediction of the Gazette made some time ago, is being verified to the letter.

One of the principal issues in the campaign in Indiana, is the question whether or not the next Legislature shall submit a prohibitory amendment to a popular vote. Already the prohibition leaders are making a vigorous campaign, and, as one of the devices for arousing enthusiasm, are moving across the State with the great tent which has already been in the thick of the temperance fight in Kansas and Iowa. This mammoth tabernacle, aside from the accommodation it affords, is thought to possess an important sentimental value by reason of the brilliant victories in which it has played a part.

Some of the Republicans in the Third Congressional district, especially in Dane county, are very much exercised over the action of Congressman Caswell in going out of his own county and out of his district to find a man to fill a clerkship at Washington. Under a recent act of Congress, 422 new clerks for the pension office were provided for, and of this number Wisconsin was entitled to 10. Nine have been appointed as follows:

AT SENATOR CAMERON.

Lewis C. Gury	$1,600
Charles B. Heim	1,200
Thomas Hood	1,000

BY SENATOR SAWYER.

J. H. Dodge	1,200
James E. Rogers	1,200

BY REPRESENTATIVE HUMPHREY.

H. J. Casson	1,000

BY REPRESENTATIVE POUND.

J. P. Hurlbut	1,400

BY REPRESENTATIVE HAZELTON.

J. W. Rewey	1,400

BY REPRESENTATIVE CASWELL.

G. E. Weatherby	1,400

The queerest thing connected with this business is that Caswell should turn his back on his own political friends in his own county and district, and go down to Lafayette county for a man to fill a clerkship at fourteen hundred a year, when there are so many needy and worthy young men in Jefferson county who have long been hoping for a little of Washington life at a fair salary. He was entitled to one clerkship and strangely tossed it over to Hazelton. The State Journal is indignant over the transaction and says:

> The presumption is irresistible that Mr. Hazelton had received all the favors he was entitled to receive; and, in the goodness of his heart, Mr. Caswell overlooks all of his own friends,—to whom he is under special obligation for the place he now holds,—and comes to the aid of Mr. Hazelton, who will need all the places he can get to secure a renomination, and then probably lose it; and Mr. Caswell's aid is ever ready to help him. Dane county, which has stood nobly by Mr. Caswell and secured for him four terms in Congress, did not, and could not expect favors at his hands, but Jefferson, his own county, which now backs him for another nomination, had some rights that an ordinary man was bound to respect. But it seems our honored member has no respect for the rights of those to whom he is under the greatest obligation, but rather extends his favors to those who are seeking to defeat the best and truest friend he ever had in the State.

Another queer thing in regard to the matter is that Weatherby should be appointed. He had ample means, does not need the salary the clerkship will give him, and beside that he has never earned any sort of recognition at the hands of the party. It would seem to an outsider that Hazelton could have secured Lafayette by better means than by dealing out a clerkship to Weatherby.

The morning paper, in behalf of a third party, asks this question:

> Isn't the evening paper rather overdoing the River and Harbor bill question?

If to denounce public extravagance, to wisely criticise public legislation, to urge upon Congress the exercise of ordinary business discretion in appropriating money, and to hope that the Republican party will remain an enduring strength in this nation, are all wrong, then the Gazette is "overdoing" the River and Harbor bill. But if public jobbery is wrong and dishonest expenditures an act of injustice, and if to work to place the Republican party above reproach that it may continue to live and to control the government, is the duty of the Republican press, then the Gazette is not "overdoing" the River and Harbor bill.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Now that President Arthur has left to spend some time from the city, the small-fry politicians who take their vacations on the back porches of Washington boarding houses, are weighing him in the balance and commending on the record he has thus far made. There is but little difference of opinion expressed. It is admitted that none could have better and few as well. "A few low grade newspapers," said a gentleman "have attacked the President, accusing him of want of good faith. They charge him with having broken his clearly expressed promises and with unnecessary and cruel delay. There is nothing to those charges, which are only thown out as 'feelers.' The public is satisfied that Mr. Arthur has made as good appointments as it was possible to make. He appeared to be slow, but the circumstances, if you will reflect for a few moments, were such that haste would have been infinitly worse."

"If President Arthur is as fortunate during the rest of his term," said another, "he will be the most formidable candidate before the people in 1884. That veto of the River and Harbor bill was a big stroke of policy. I will not say that motives of policy alone influenced him, because I believe he honestly thought several million dollars in that bill were outrageously misappropriated, but I also think he knew it would greatly increase his popularity with the people. I venture to say that the cordiality of the people's approval of his act not only pleased, but to some extent, surprised him. I thought, and think so still, that, that there was room for an honest difference of opinion as to the wisdom of the veto. He has also done a number of other things which have met the nation's heartiest approval The veto of the so called "Twenty year Chinese Bill" was one of them. His message recommending an appropriation for the improvement of the Mississippi River was another. and so I might go on. In short, he has done many excellent things and has made no blunder."

"Do you think he is working for the presidency in 1884?"

There can be no doubt of it. He desires to be something more than an 'accidental.' His ambition is laudable and he has chosen the right way of gratifying it by doing what the best judgment of the people declares should be done. He courts popular favor, but only through legitimate channels."

"Has his proposed western trip any political significance?

"I think it has, to this extent—that he wishes to show his interest in the West. He is, comparatively speaking, a stranger there, and his object is not only to know the West better, but to be better known there. The visit will undoubtedly be of political interest to him."

NEW YORK, Aug. 13—The report of the collission between the rival Coney Island boats this evening caused much excitement in this city and Brooklyn. ROME CITY, Ind., Aug. 13.—While Guy West, a lad 13 years old, was playing with his father's gun, it accidently discharged while he was blowing through the barrel with his feet on the tricker to see if it was empty. The ball entered his brain, killing him almost instantly.

A GRASPING LANDLORD.

LONG BRANCH, Aug. 13.—The guests of the Hotel Bellevue, near Sea Bright, stampeded because of two cases of typhoid-fever. The proprietor posted the notice:

> I will close this hotel Monday, sure.
> J. H. COREY.

The patients are N. W. Andrews, brother-in-law of Cyrus W. Field, Jr., and Albert Levy, a relative of the bankers Seligmans. Physicians say the patients cannot recover. The friends of the sick persons say they will pay any reasonable sum for their maintenance, but not the sum demanded. Corey says he would shut up the entire house to-morrow and prosecute any one who broke into it. He could not afford to have the house shut up at this season of the year. If the two ill persons were removed at once he thought he could reopen as soon as the rooms were renovated, and keep his hotel full of guests the rest of the season. If the patients were kept in the hotel he wanted the loss made good.

FIRES.

HAMMOND, Ind., Aug. 13.—At 9:20 the dread cry of fire rang through our quiet village. KENOSHA DELEGATES.

KENOSHA, Wis., August 12.—The County Convention for the appointment of delegates to attend the Congressional Convention to be held at Geneva Lake August 16, was held in this city to-day. The attendance was slim, several townships not being represented. The result was the appointment of two delegates, who are understood to be for Williams. No effort was made by any other candidate to secure the delegation. There is a strong sentiment in the county in favor of Van Wyck, but no organized effort in his behalf. In fact, it is generally understood that he is not a candidate.

POLITICAL INSTITUTIONS: Being part of 5 of the Principles of Sciology. By Herbert Spencer. New York: D. Appleton & Co. 1 Vol. Price, cloth, $1.50.

The latest book by Herbert Spencer is "Political Institutions," a philosophical work which the disciples of Spencer will read with much interest. It has been said that Herbert Spencer's works hardly pay the cost of publication, there is so little demand for them among the people, but he keeps on writing and the Appleton's keep on publishing them. The author attempts to define a universal system of philosophy, and advocates it with all the depth of learning he possesses.

These essays, scientific in character, are to be taken for granted concerning all products of Professor Tyndall's pen, and are written with a view of imparting popular information. "On public sympathy," says the author in his preface, "the sanitary physician has mainly to rely for support. * * * But sympathy without cause—that is to say, without some basis of knowledge—is hardly to be expected. It is as a contribution to such knowledge that these essays have been prepared and collected in their present form." Charles Lamb at Home.

I availed myself of Charles Lamb's friendly invitation August 5, 1834. On reaching his cottage, which stood back from the road, (nearly opposite the church,) between two houses which projected beyond it, and was screened by shrubs and trees, I found that he was out taking his morning stroll. I was admitted to a small, paneled, and agreeably shaded parlor. The modest room was hung round with engravings by Hogarth in dark frames. Books and magazines were scattered on the table and on the old-fashioned window seat. I chatted awhile with Miss Lamb—a meek, intelligent, very pleasant, but rather deaf elderly lady, who told me that her brother had been gratified by parts of my poem, ("Emily de Wilton,") and had read them to her. "Elia" came in soon after—a short, thin man. His dress was black and he wore a capacious coat, breeches, and gaiters, and a white neck-handkerchief. His dark and shaggy hair and eyebrows, and heated face, and very piercing jet-black eyes gave to his appearence a singularly wild and striking expression. The sketch of him in Fraser' Magazine gives a true idea of his dress and figure, but his portraits fail to represent adequately his remarkably "fine Titian head full of dumb eloquence," as Hazlitt described it. He grasped me cordially by the hand, sat down, and taking a bottle from a cupboard behind him, mixed some rum and water. On another occasion his sister objected to this operation, and he refrained. Presently after he said: "May I have a little drop now? only a leetle drop." "No," said she, "be a good boy." At last, however, he prevailed and took his usual draught. On each visit (that of August 5 having been quickly succeeded by another) I found that he required to be drawn into conversation. He would throw out a playful remark and then pause a while. He spoke by fits and starts, and had a slight impediment in his utterance which made him, so to say, grunt once or twice before he began a sentence; but his tones were loud and rich, and once, when he read to me a passage from a folio of Beaumont and Fletcher (which his sister had brought down to show me Coleridge's manuscript remarks at the end of each play) the deep pathos of his voice gave great weight to the impression made by the poetry. He would jump up and slap his sister playfully on the back, and a roomy snuff-box often passed between them on the old round table. There was not that point in his conversation which we find in William Hone's. He agreed with me that Moore's poetry was like very rich plum cake—very nice, but too much of it at a time makes one sick. He said that Byron had written only one good-natured thing, and that was the "Vision of Judgment." "Mary," he added to Miss Lamb, "don't you hate Byron?" "Yes, Charles," she replied. "That's right," says he,—Notes and Queries.

Owned to His Record.

The editor was sitting in his revolving canebottom chair when Tornado Tom, the traveling terror of Texas, came in and demanded retraction of the statement that he had swindled an orphan out of $4.

"It's a lie clear through," said the Terror, striking the table with his fist. "I'm as good a man as smells the atmosphere in this section."

"Perhaps you are better," said the editor, meekly.

"My record will compare favorably with yours," said the terror with a sneer; "perhaps there are a few little back rackets in your life, sir, that wouldn't bear a microscopic investigation."

"Oh, sir," said the editor, visibly agitated, "I don't recall the past; don't bring up the memories of the tomb; I know I've led a hard life—I don't deny it. I killed Shorty Barnes, the Bowery boy of New York—hacked him all to pieces with a knife. I have atoned for that a thousand times. I blew a man's head off at a log-roll in Kentucky, and bitterly have I repented of my folly. I slew a lot of inoffensive citizens of Omaha over a paltry $4 pot, simply because I got excited. Oh, could I but cheat the tomb of the men I have placed in its maw I would be happy. But it was all owing to my high temper and lack of early training. I know that I have been wayward, wicked, and you have a right to come here and recall those unhappy memories; but it's mean for all that. Nobody with a heart would treat a man like you have me. Don't leave, stranger; I'll tell you all. I sawed a man's head off with an old army saber just for—"

The Texas Terror was down stairs and half way around the corner, while the editor, taking a fresh chew of rattlesnake twist, continued his peaceful avocations quietly as a law-abiding citizen.—Salt Lake Tribune.

PUBLIC LANDS.

Useful Information for Settlers.

[From the Prairie Farmer.]

There are now public lands open to settlement in nineteen States and eight Territories. In the following, Land Offices are established, which are in charge of a Register, where the land records are kept, and where all applications concerning lands in each district are filed and inquiries answered:

Alabama—Huntsville, Montgomery.
Arkansas—Little Rock, Camden, Harrison, Dardanelle.
Arizona Territory—Prescott, Florence.
California—San Francisco, Marysville, Humboldt, Stockton, Visalia, Sacramento, Los Angeles, Shasta, Susanville, Bodie.
Colorado—Denver City, Leadville, Central City, Pueblo, Del Norte, Lake City.
Dakota Territory—Mitchell, Watertown, Fargo, Yankton, Bismarck, Deadwood, Grand Forks.
Florida—Gainesville.
Idaho Territory—Boise City, Lewiston, Oxford.
Iowa—Des Moines.
Kansas—Topeka, Salina, Independence, Wichita, Kirwin, Concordia, Larned, Wa-Keeny.
Louisiana—New Orleans, Natchitoches.
Michigan—Detroit, East Saginaw, Reed City, Marquette.
Minnesota—Taylor's Falls, St. Cloud, Duluth, Fergus Falls, Worthington, Crookston, Benson, Tracy, Redwood Falls.
Mississippi—Jackson.
Missouri—Boonville, Ironton, Springfield.
Montana Territory—Helena, Bozeman, Miles City.
Nebraska—Norfolk, Beatrice, Lincoln, Niobrara, Grand Island, North Platte, Bloomington.
Nevada—Carson City, Eureka.
New Mexico Territory—Santa Fe, La Mesilla.
Oregon—Oregon City, Roseburg, Le Grand, Lake View, The Dalles.
Utah Territory—Salt Lake City.
Washington Territory—Olympia, Vancouver, Walla Walla, Colfax, Yakima.
Wisconsin—Menasha, Falls of St. Croix, Wausau, La Crosse, Bayfield, Eau Claire.
Wyoming Territory—Cheyenne, Evanston.

There are two classes of public lands, one being disposed of at $1.25 per acre, and the other at $2.50 per acre. The latter are the alternate sections reserved by the Government in the land grants to railroads, etc.

If a person desires to purchase for cash, he applies at the land office, pays his money, gets a receipt for it, and a certificate of purchase, the complete title to the land being given by the Commissioner of the General Land Office at Washington, if the proceeding of the Register is found regular; if not, the money is refunded. But cases of refunding scarcely ever occur, so that no anxiety is felt on that score, if the certificate is once obtained.

Heads of families, or citizens over 21 alone can locate under the pre-emption law. If such settle upon a quarter-section of unoccupied land they have the right of prior claim to purchase on complying with the proper regulations.

The homestead laws give to any citizen, or applicant for citizenship, over 21 years of age, who will actually settle upon and cultivate the land, 160 acres of $1.25 per acre land, or half the amount of $2.50 per acre land. The settler must occupy and cultivate his farm for five years before his patent will be issued. The fees will range from $7 to $34, and must be paid to the Register.

In order to obtain a title to a timber claim on the public lands of the United States, according to the amended law, but ten acres on each quarter section need be planted to timber, or a corresponding portion on eighty and forty-acre tracts. The following are the conditions: Five acres on each quarter section are to be broken the first year, cropped the second year, and the additional five acres broken. The tree planting on five acres must be done the third year, at the rate of 2,700 to the acre, which means that the trees must stand four feet apart. The fourth year the remaining five acres must be put in in the same manner. Cultivation of the trees must continue for eight years, at the end of which time there must be 675 living trees per acre on each of the ten acres. The fees and commissions in timber-culture entries range from $13 to $18. There has been some restriction as to the kind of timber trees that should be planted, intended, of course, to make all efforts to obtain lands under this act legitimate to prevent fraud in securing them. The Land Commissioner named the species of trees that must be planted, but his latest decision is in effect that any kind of tree may be planted that is known to be valuable in the locality in which the land is to be located. Of course, every one who desires to create a home for himself and family on one of these tracts is more deeply than any one else interested in informing himself upon this subject, and in securing the very best species and varieties obtainable.

Two Western Towns.

The two smart towns of Fargo and Morehead look at each other across the muddy Red river ditch with jealous eyes. They will not bridge the stream, because each is afraid the other would profit by a convenient crossing. Vehicles ferry over on a rude flat-boat, worked by hand-power applied to a rope stretched from bank to bank, and pedestrians are beholden to the railroad company for the use of its bridge. Morehead, the Minnesota town, has 3,000 inhabitants; Fargo, the Dakota town, boasts of 6,000, and styles itself the Red river metropolis. Both welter in a sea of black mud in the season of thaws and rains; both are largely devoted to speculation in lots and lands, and both are equally unattractive to the eye. They are in reality a single town, commercially speaking, and a remarkably prosperous one, too. The railroad system has made them the business center and distributing point for the entire Red river valley, and out of their present jumble of muddy streets, cheap pine cottages and shanties, vacant lots, saloons, stores and lumber piles, will grow up a handsome city of 50,000 inhabitants within the present generation. Already there is a handsome hotel, rejoicing in the architectural oddities of the Queen Anne craze, a street railway, an electric light company, water-works, half a dozen banks, a daily newspaper, a number of creditable churches and school buildings, and a few pretty dwellings. Real estate speculation runs wild. Visions of a second chance have turned the heads of the inhabitants. "The talk is all about lots and values—how much this or that corner is worth, what Jones paid for his strip of mud, or what Smith holds his at. The real-estate agents have their offices in the hotels, in order to watch the arrival of guests and seize upon the supposed capitalist seeking investments, or the immigrant looking for a farm. No well-dressed stranger need wait long for the offer of a free ride about the future city and a valuable guide to explain the many choice openings waiting for him and his money.—E. V. Smalley, in the Century.

Gallant Deeds.

At Stone river when Cruft's brigade of Palmer's division was pursuing the routed rebels on the 2d of January, they came suddenly on a reserve battery that opened on them with surprising fury. The men were ordered to lie down, and dropped in the soft mud of a cornfield. The rebel artillerymen had the range, however, and poured shot and shell into the advance line in a way that tore some unfortunates in pieces and covered nearly every one with mud. In the midst of the terrible fusillade, a shell struck between two men lying flat on the ground, so near to their heads as to stun both. Dozens of men, the bravest there, closed their eyes in anticipation of the terrible scene that would follow the explosion. But one of the soldiers at whose shoulder the smoking shell had struck, digging up a handful of mud, held it aloft for a moment while he said coolly, "Ten to one, boys, she don't bust," and then with a sort of gleeful agility he brought his great wad of mud down on the shell smoking in the shallow hole, and "she didn't bust."

When Sherman was getting ready for his move on Atlanta great quantities of ammunition were stored in the railroad sheds at Resaca. One day, in the midst of a thunder-storm that dismantled the camp, the ammunition building was struck by lightning. Hundreds of the bravest soldiers ran blindly away as they saw the boxes of shell thrown about, saw the guards drop as if shot, and saw smoke issuing from the top of the great pile of explosives. But one man, clear-eyed and cool-headed, saw that the smoke came from tow in which the shells were packed, and, climbing to the top, he seized the burning mass, and holding it up shouted, "All right, boys; no fireworks this time." His intrepidity and alertness saved the ammunition and possibly many lives.

Fanny Fern's Order for Dinner.

I have recalled several times, and for reasons, a morn I once spent with "Fanny Fern," who was always good and kind to young people, especially if they aspired to scribbling for the printer. She was busy and had given orders that there were to be no interruptions for any reason. Suddenly there broke upon our stillness—she was writing and I reading—a loud knock on the door. "What is it?" said Mrs. Parton, a trifle impatiently. It was the cook, a new one. "Plase, ma'am, nothing has come for dinner. What will I do, ma'am?" "Do? Why, cook the cat! but leave me alone," and she gently shut the door and turned the key. I did not stay to dinner. A kinder-hearted woman than "Fanny Fern" never lived; but, like all women who seek seclusion and quiet, at times she had to fight for it.

Side Saddles for Bannisters.

[Peck's Sun.]

There is no little town in the State that is more pious than Tomah, in Monroe county. The people there are all religious, with few exceptions, and they strain every nerve to raise money to pay their ministers and to pay church expenses. A traveling man who goes there a good deal, says the people seem to vie with each other to see which of them can do the most for their church. The traveling man attended a sociable at a residence there not long ago, which was held to raise money to buy the minister a pair of rubber pants for baptisimal purposes, and he says he witnessed a scene which he never shall forget. The residence was filled with the best people of the town, and at the head of the stairs were a numer of ladies and gentlemen who were discussing this characteristic of the citizens. One beautiful lady said to the drummer, "Yes, we are full of enthusiasm for the cause of religion, and would do anything reasonable for the development of our finances. Why," said she, as she leaned over the railing and tucked the lace into the dashboard of her dress which was cut down at the heel in front, "if I could make a dollar towards paying the salary of our minister, I would slide down that bannister." The traveling man thought to bluff the beautiful and stylishly-dressed lady, and pulling out a silver dollar he handed it to her, saying, "Well, there is no man that enjoys giving to the church any more than I do. Here is your dollar, and now let's see you slide down the bannister." The lady blushed a little, and acted as if she was surprised at being taken up so quick, but seeming to realize that it was her duty to turn all the shekels she could into the coffers of the church, she at once threw a half of herself over the bannister, and began to go down slowly. It was evident that she intended to hang on tight and go down easily and quietly, and have it over and the dollar in the contribution box before the crowd found it out; but somebody announced in the parlor and sitting-room that Mrs. So-and-so was sliding down the bannister, and everybody rushed into the hall. Whether it was the crowd that made the lady nervous or something let go unexpectedly, probably nobody will ever know, but she seemed to cut loose all at once and go down that bannister as though she was shot out of a gun, and as the procession arrived at the newel post at the bottom, the searcher after a silver dollar yelled like a Comanche and went over into the crowd, against the hat-rack and card basket as though she had fallen out of a balloon. The drummer says the air seemed to be fairly surcharged with beautiful woman. The minister, who came out of the parlor just as she was coming down, was hit in the ear by the heel of a number one gaiter, which blinded him so he held his hands over his eyes and said, "Mercy on us!" and as she struck on one shoulder he rushed up to her and asked if she had broken any bones. The remains were inverted, and as she pulled the frizzes out of her mouth she answered, "Never mind the bones. Here's your dollar," and she handed the silver dollar to the preacher. He took it mechanically, while the lady got up and was helped up stairs. One deacon, who was struck in the pit of the stomach by what he took to be a cannon ball with blonde hair on it, and a back comb on top, was picked out from under a marble table, and they had to blow in his face before he could breathe. When he came to the first thing he asked of the man of the house was, "Why in Gehena don't you have a lightning rod on this house?" It was nearly an hour before the lady and her attendants came down to lunch, and she refused all offers of chairs, saying she preferred to stand; but the drummer said he came away early, for every time she looked towards him it seemed as though she wanted to bite his head off. He says if he had suggested the sliding down the bannister he would have felt as though some blame might attach to him, but it was her game, and if she got beat at it he couldn't see what the sense was in getting spunky. It is safe to say that if the success of the churches at Tomah depends on bannister sliding, hereafter ministers will go hungry unless they put side-saddle on.

A Canary and a Mouse.

A very fine canary bird is owned by a gentleman in Nevada county, Cal. Unusual quantities of food disappeared from his cage. One day the gentleman chanced to look in the cage, and there, snugly stowed away in one of the seed-boxes, was a mouse, fat as butter. Upon attempting to remove the mouse the bird made a chivalrous fight for the little animal. A singular fact that while the mouse was there the bird kept up a constant singing all day, but since the mouse has been removed the bird has refused to warble.

Shortened Life in the Human Race.

The maturity of man, calculated by the completed condition of the skeleton, is twenty-one years. Twenty-one years multiplied by five—105 years—is therefore the natural duration of the life of man on this estimate, and, with a certain natural limited range, may be accepted as the true and full duration. But when the actual value of life is taken it is found to present, in this country, an average of forty-two years, so that there are grand agencies at work which are reducing the national life to a very low value. If the inquirer enter further into the matter he will observe that the grand agencies leading to this reduced value of life must be in some way removable, because they are not always in action to reduce every form of life to the same level of duration. He will discover that the domestic animals which surround us, if we do not kill them outright by hard labor, exposure to the vicissitudes of the seasons or privation, are so much longer lived than we are, and they exist, practically, to their full term with as much exactitude as we exist to the first of our second stage of existence. Or, to put the matter in another light, he will discover that, if our lower domestic animals were to die in the same ratio that we die, their duration of life, as it is now known, would be reduced to nearly half what it is. The dog would have an average term of 8 years, and other animals a similarly-reduced term of life. Such observations as these will lead the sanitarian to find a uniform object in his labor. He will ask what is the reason why man, who holds all the knowledge and skill above the brute creation, should have so little control over his own destiny that he cannot control it in respect to health and life as well as the inferior creature which, compared with himself, has neither reason nor skill. He will wonder in vain so long as he looks simply at the general fact. He will not wonder at all when he proceeds to an analysis of all the details upon which that general fact depends.

In the first place, he will learn from an analysis of the data he may collect that man is the subject of many more diseases than the inferior animals are; that he suffers from certain diseases of the mind incidental to his possession of a mental organization superior altogether to theirs, and from which diseases they are exempt; that he suffers from some diseases springing from human vices, from which the lower animals are also exempt; that he suffers from contagious diseases from which they are exempt; that he suffers from diseases connected with the industrial pursuits from which they are exempt; that he suffers from indulgences in certain luxuries of a deadly kind from which they are exempt; that he suffers from various accidents from which they are exempt; that he suffers from hereditary taints of disease from which they are exempt.—Our Homes.

The Mule.

This is a Mule. He feels sick. Do not pet a Mule because he feels sick, for he may make you feel sick. The Mule's Tail is short and slim. He cannot brush off the Flies with his Tail. His Ears are large and long. He can brush Flies off his Tail with his Ears. With his Ears he can fan himself, too. His fore Legs are quite short. His hind Legs are ex-ceed-ing-ly long. Many nat-u-ral-ists have tried to meas-ure the Length of a Mule's hind Legs; but have only suc-ceed-ed in having their own Legs measured. A wise man has said "there are some Things in Nature past finding out." This is one of those Things. It is safer to play with a Mule's Ears than with his Tail. It is safer to play with a Can of Ni-tro-Glyc-er-ine than either: Dear Chil-dren, if your Pa-pas have Lots of Money, do not let them buy any Mules with hind Legs on to cel-e-brate Fourth-of-July with, for Mules with hind Legs on are apt to go off sud-den-ly, and remove Your Sweet Young Soul from Life's pleasant Scenes.—Yonkers Gazette.

Small Farms.

The Detroit Post has compiled from the census reports of 1870 and 1880 a comparative table of farms under twenty acres occupied in thirty-three States in the years 1870 and 1880. In parallel columns the increase or decrease in the number of these farms may also be found.

NORTHERN STATES.	FARMS UNDER TWENTY AC. For the Year 1870.	For the Year 1880.	Increase since 1870.	Decrease since 1870.
California	3,273	2,637		636
Connecticut	4,724	5,542	818
Illinois	13,824	12,607		1,217
Indiana	22,344	12,872		9,472
Iowa	10,378	5,519		4,859
Kansas	10,325	2,717		7,608
Maine	10,815	5,266		5,549
Michigan	20,067	7,319		12,748
Nebraska	244	1,108	864
N. Hampshire	3,456	3,768	212
New Jersey	6,539	6,127		412
New York	31,223	32,142	919
Ohio	21,006	25,320	4,314
Oregon	1,113	392		721
Pennsylvania	26,197	31,241	5,044
Rhode Island	1,150	1,037		123
Vermont	8,805	8,270		645
Wisconsin	16,560	5,514		11,046
SOUTHERN STATES.
Alabama	13,619	16,929	3,310
Arkansas	17,300	12,947		4,353
Delaware	811	803		8
Florida	3,455	3,826	371
Georgia	10,199	11,905	1,706
Kentucky	23,482	20,800		2,682
Louisiana	11,194	8,656		2,538
Maryland	3,078	6,204	3,126
Mississippi	19,984	14,356		5,628

N. Carolina	21,294	25,385	4,094
S. Carolina	19,620	19,672	52
Virginia	10,929	16,776	6,847
W. Virginia	9,445	6,324		3,121

From the foregoing table it will be seen that the only considerable increase in the number of small farms between 1870 and 1880 was in the States of Ohio and Pennsylvania in the North and Alabama, Maryland, North Carolina and Virginia in the South. There was a falling off of over 16,000 in the number of small farms (twenty acres and under) in Missouri and of 12,748 in Michigan. The greatest falling off was in these two States. Wisconsin, Indiana and Kansas follow in order.

The census report is incomplete in this, that it does not indicate clearly whether this is the result of extending clearings or absorption of small holdings. There is in all new counties a first tendency to increase the acreage of each farm, after that follows division and cutting up into smaller holding. Apparently both processes are now going on simultaneously, but the increased number of land owners in the country indicates the disappearance of small farms in some States is not caused by freezing out the small holders.

Farm Growth.

The Census Bureau furnishes the number of farms in nineteen Northern and fourteen Southern States in the year 1880, which we herewith publish, together with carefully-calculated tables, showing the increase in the number of farms in the several decades since 1850, as follows:

NORTHERN STATES.	Gross No. of farms year 1880.	INCREASE IN NO. OF FARMS. From 1850 to 1860.	From 1860 to 1870.	From 1870 to 1880.

Virginia	118,517			44,568
West Virginia	62,674			22,898

From the above it appears that Kansas heads the list of increased farm acreage since 1870, followed in order by Georgia, Missouri and Iowa. The most active growth of Illinois was between 1850 and 1860. The same is true of Wisconsin, Indiana and California. In all the Southern States the past decade was one of unexampled growth. In that period Alabama, Florida and Georgia more than doubled their farm acreage.

Two CARP were placed in a wet bag and kept out of water for over forty hours, and then, on being turned loose in Prospect Park lake, they wagged their tails about as if nothing had happened! Carp at this if you will; but it is a true fish story related at a late meeting of the Fish Culture Association.

A Duel to the Death.

Robert Crittenden, the brother of Henry Crittenden, whose removal to Arkansas I have mentioned, fought a very remarkable duel about the year 1830. He canvassing the Territory of Arkansas as a candidate for Delegate to Congress—Gen. Conway, the brother of the subsequent Governor of the State of that name, being his opponent. The latter was a "Jackson man," while Crittenden was "anti-Jackson," in the political nomenclature of that day. There was an immense concourse of people in attendance, and party feeling ran pretty high. The discussion became personal, and Crittenden at the close of his second speech remarked that he "trusted no gentleman would utter such words in the heat of debate toward him as could not be tolerated by the code of honor." Conway retorted in a torrent of bitter invective and personal denunciations. Crittenden briefly and calmly rejoined: "Your language, Gen. Conway, admits of only one answer, and that, you may be sure, I will make right speedily." A hostile message was sent the same day, and the meeting arranged for the following morning.

A vast throng had collected to witness the duel, for there had been no attempt made to conceal it. Ben Desha, a son of Gov. Desha of Kentucky, was Crittenden's second, and Col. Wharton Rector was the second of Conway. There was some delay in settling the preliminaries, at which Gen. Conway became impatient and excited, while Crittenden remained perfectly cool, stretched quietly on a blanket, with his eyes closed as though he were sleeping. Finally the principals were called to their positions. "The spectator," says an eye-witness, "at a glance contrasted their aspect and bearing. Crittenden inherited the noblest of human forms, with fair hair, blue eyes and a lofty countenance, frank and open in its expression, and wearing the seal of death-defying bravery. He stood cool, collected and unconcerned, like a rifleman about to fire at a mark. But Conway had a stern face, eyes dark as night, and his look of indubitable courage was perceptibly tinged with revenge.

"At length Desha gave the word in a voice that rang over the hills like the peal of a trumpet: 'Fire! One—two—three!' At the sound 'Fire!' Conway raised his weapon and drew the trigger. His bullet grazed Crittenden's breast and cut a button off his coat without more injury. But Crittenden waited until the last echo of the word 'Two,' and then his pistol exploded. Gen. Conway dropped to the earth like lead. The ball had pierced his heart."—Cincinnati Commercial.

The Boy That Had a Nag That Could Trot.

"So, Christopher, you have bought a horse," observed Mr. Gandy, as he pleasantly surveyed his son. "What business are you going into?"

"Business—er—o—business; well, my dear sir, the fact is I have been tumbling on something that can trot."

"You shouldn't have done it, Christopher," said the old gentleman, kindly; "you are not young enough, your bones are set and you are too fat. You can never be an Emperor of the arena, Christopher. Do not tumble or engage in any gymnastics on the animal again."

"Of course, I only meant that I have been lucky enough to discover something with speed, and have picked it up for a mere song."

"Ah—a colt?"

"Well, no, not emphatically; but her pedigree is a poem—dam Mme. Spavin, sire Signor Botts; own sister to Bones and Osteology, and half sister to Blind Staggers and Soap Grease."

"You will soon do it," mused the old gentleman, as a soft light played about his eyes; "you will soon be there, Christopher. There are a great many of you scattered through the country; you blossom at every rural crossing, my boy. You will soon pose on a contrivance like a hay rake with the teeth out; you will round your shoulders to give an artistic outline to a spotted shirt with baggy sleeves and a balloony back, and as you sit on your vehicle by a pump you will look pensively out from under a cap peak built like the bill of a sugar scoop, and as you tilt your cigar ash to the level of your left eye, and keep silently fanning the tail of your animal with a two-foot whip, you will lose yourself in the enchantment of turf reverie. The bystanders may never know that you can't distinguish the points of a mare from those of a mermaid, Christopher, but as long as you are oblivious to this knowledge I see no reason why you should not enjoy your soothing reflections."—Rochester Express.

MEN'S minds are as various as their faces. Where the motives of their actions are pure, the operation of the former is no more to be imputed to them, as a crime, than the appearance of the latter; for both, being the work of nature, are alike unavoidable.—George Washington.

Mines of Precious Stones.

Gems of all kinds possess a curious interest to human beings. From the earliest times precious stones have had a strange attraction for the wealthy and powerful of the earth. So far, no diamond fields have been discovered in the United States, but precious stones are found in several localities. In New Mexico there is a famous turquoise mine which must have been worked literally a thousand years ago, for it yielded up its treasures to the Aztecs and to other prehistoric races which dominated in Mexico and adjoining countries. It is believed this mine can still be used for bringing out its peculiar treasures, but in the eager hunt for gold and silver mines, the mining of gems is overlooked. In Alexander county, North Carolina, they are discovering emeralds, and in such quantities that the mining of them is likely to become a profitable industry.

—Mr. A. C. Powers, of the town of Rock, is announced as a candidate for county clerk. Mr. Powers is a worthy gentleman, and would make a good clerk.

—A warrant was sworn out to-day against Thomas Mackin a saloon keeper on West Milwaukee street, charging him with keeping an open house on Sunday.

—Hon. Pliny Norcross will be the auctioneer who will sell the brooms of the Broom Brigade to the highest bidder to-night. He says he does it for the usual commission.

—Mr. Pliny Norcross, on his return from the editorial excursion presented the Bower City Band five dollars, as a token of his appreciation of their excellent services on the excursion.

—Miss Lillian DeLong, who has just returned from Chicago, where she distinguished herself in a recent elocutionary recital, will deliver a recitation at the Broom Brigade entertainment to-night.

—The Orpheus Club will participate in the musicale to be given by Prof. C. G. Titcomb next Monday night. Mr. Benjamin G. Groves, of Chicago, a very fine baritone, who is now visiting friends here, will also lend his voice.

—August Koplin appeared before Justice Patten to-day to answer to the charge of bastardy, made against him by Minna Hein. Both parties are young and live in the town of Center. The case was continued to Thursday.

—The Sunday school picnic of Trinity church will take place next Wednesday at McKoy's farm. As all members of the congregation are invited, the attendance will doubtless be large, and the fun plenty.

—Saturday's State Journal contained the following notice: "Miss Stella Griswold, of Janesville, who has been visiting in the families of Mrs. W. J. L. Nicodemus and Mrs. Fanny Vilas, the past week, returned home this morning."

—Mass will be celebrated in St. Patrick's church to-morrow morning, at 8 and 10:30 o'clock; also, at St. Mary's church, at the same hours, it being one of the important feasts of the Catholic Church, "The Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary."

—Mr. George W. Hawes returned from Europe to-day. Mrs. Hawes will visit Canada before she returns to Janesville. Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Conrad, who returned in the same vessel with Mr. and Mrs. Hawes, are expected home this evening or to-morrow.

—The Board of Education at their meeting Saturday evening appointed Miss Annie A. Ockford, of Ann Arbor, Mich., and Miss Hattie Benedict, of Clinton, Wisconsin, to the position of assistants in the High School in place of Misses Carle and Godden.

—Dr. Humphrey, assisted by Dr. Chittenden, performed a most delicate surgical operation on the person of a young lady now at Dr. Humphrey's residence for treatment. The work was done yesterday at 11 a. m., and at this writing the patient is apparently doing well.

—The committee in charge of arrangements for the Broom Brigade entertainment, having recognized the necessity of providing more accommodations, have placed several hundred additional chairs in the armory, so that the seating capacity will be great enough to afford every one a seat.

—A game of base ball was played yesterday between the the clerks on the East side and those on the West. The West side boys were victorious by a score of 21 to 16. A club made up of boys working in the Harris works, went to Beloit and badly defeated the machine shop boys there. Janesville forever!

—Rockford has an organization called a base ball club, but so far they have miserably failed to prove their right to the name. The club has been defeated everywhere, and yet they rant. Their adherents make up in vulgar abuse of other clubs and players, for the defective playing of their own nine. Is there anything you can do better than playing ball?"

—An announcement was erroneously made in another paper that a party from Chicago had rented the establishment where Mr. Wm. Cunningham's saloon is located thus compelling Mr. Cunningham to seek new quarters. The statement is devoid of an iota of truth, Mr. Cunningham having always proved a good and prompt paying tenant and will remain at the old stand for a long time to come.

—The trot at the driving park, Saturday was well attended and some good sport enjoyed. Five horses started, trotting in heats, but the match was not decided, the lateness of the hour preventing the trotting of the decisive heat. The best time was made by Bayburne, against Corning's roan. Both horses were in the air a good deal, but the bay won easily in 2:28. There is no reason why these meets should not be more frequent, as there are a number of good ones here, several of them being owned owned elsewhere, and kept here for training.

—Occasionly Janesville is disgraced by attempts at hoodlumism, and it is not unusual for crowds to congregate Sunday night and make night hideous with their unseemly conduct. An indulgence in ear-splitting singing is the principal pastime, which would be sufferable were it not that the songs are in some localities, tipped with obscenity. Under the advice of Mayor Croft, and the request of a number of citizens, City Attorney E. M. Hyzer, is drafting an ordinance, making such exhibitions punishable with fine or imprisonment.

—A painful accident occurred to Mr. Fred Benwitz, on Bluff Street this afternoon, by which he will be laid up for several days. He was working for Mr. Dan Dowling, and while taking a load of putty-coat to the new house belonging to Mike Murphy, the tongue of the wagon was let down by an accident, when the horses started on a run, and the wagon making a sudden turn, threw Mr. Benwitz out, breaking a rib in the breast, and otherwise injuring his arm. He was taken to the office of Dr. Palmer, where his injuries were attended to by Dr. Will Palmer.

GAY VIVANDIERES.

Saturday Night's Exhibition at the Guards' Armory.

Brooms to the Front.

The Broom Brigade entertainment Saturday night, was just what it deserved to be—an unequivocal success. Public curiosity had been aroused to a high pitch, and the Guards' armory was crowded, the seating capacity being wholly insufficient to accommodate the large audience. The drill on this account was not quite as good as it would have been had more space been given for the evolutions. As it was, the exhibition was astonishingly fine, and old soldiers who witnessed the precise movements of the young ladies, expressed inordinate surprise, at the ready acquisition of military expertness by the brigade. The programme was a very good one as a whole, but of course everything was made subsidiary to the drill.

Twenty-one young ladies formed the brigade, commanded by Adjutant M. A. Newman. They were attired in a very picturesque uniform, of loose blue, waists decorated with white stars, skirts made of the stars and stripes with a lower shield of blue, spangled with stars. The head dress was equally pretty, and in perfect keeping with the entire costume, being a tur ban or bandila of blue dotted with stars. The brooms were gaily decked with the national colors, and when in line, the tout ensemble was excellent. The movements were executed in a manner which would reflect credit on any company, particularly the company wheels, about the most difficult manœuver in the manual, which were made almost without a fault. The enthusiasm of the audience throughout was great, yet this extravagant praise, far from unnerving the ladies, seemed to infuse them with renewed spirit and urged them to achievements of greater success. It may have the appearance of hyperbole, but it is nevertheless true, and the belief is entertained by all the military men in the city, that never was a drill so accurately executed by any body of men, after so little practice.

Without any conception of what they were about to undertake, the young ladies submitted themselves to training and in about a fortnight, were prepared to give a public exhibition, and successfully. Could the famed Chickasaw Guards do as much? While it may seem an egotistical assumption engendered by local pride, there are a hundred gentlemen who applauded Saturday night's performance, who will stake anything that the Janesville Broom Brigade can eclipse any military organization in the country, and sweep competition so far into oblivion, that the most vivid memory will fail of a correct conception of even the outlines of the presumptuous opposition.

All that would be required to accomplish this, would be one charge by the brigade, and one utterance of that fear-generating "Bang"! By this bang is'nt meant anything peculiar about the company's coiffure, it is quite more terrible than that, consisting in a chorus of the word, ejaculated with a suddenness so utterly unexpected, and so supremely irresistible, that any enemy who could withstand it would be constituted abnormally different from other men.

For ordinary mortals, the approach of the brigade's orderly sergeant, armed cap-a-pie, would be all that would be required to bring about instant and unconditional surrender. As orderly, Miss Ada Holdredge elicited and deserved the highest praise. In all the evolutions, in the midst of the greatest intricacies, the pretty little orderly was found at her post, never making the slightest error. For a moment only during the drill, when the space was too circumscribed by the crowd, the lines were a little broken, and inextricable confusion threatened, but a timely order by the drill master, and the thorough discipline of the ladies, immediately restored order.

The young ladies deserve the highest commendation, and the Broom Brigade has already achieved the glory of being our best and finest military organization.

Dr. Newman, Mr. J. B. Doe and the other gentlemen of the Guards, who coached the company may well feel proud of theier pupils.

The other portions of the entertainment were equally excellent. Mrs. King's piano overture was very well rendered and a song by Mrs. H. A. Smith, a pleasing interlude.

Miss Hattie Dearborn's cantata, was like all that lady's efforts, charming.

Miss Amelia Watts gave a whistling solo, imitative of the mocking bird, and for sweetness of tone, put to shame the notes of the southern songster.

Mrs. F. F. Stevens, in an Irish characterization did inimitably, and those who did not recognize her, believed in Dr. Whiting's introduction, that she was a recent talented importation from abroad, afflicted with a most pronounced natural Celtic brogue.

Murphy and Patterson were, as usual, worthy of encores in their song "McCarthy's Boardin' House."

Dr. Whiting acted as master of ceremonies, and was ably assisted by the gentlemanly ushers.
